HOW DOLE WON PALM

The "Arrival" of the World's Greatest Vaulters.

The Deseret News of Salt Lake, with a few errors concerning family history, says of Norman Dole:

Norman Dole, who now secures the long delayed title of world's champion pole vaulter, comes from a wonderful athletic family—many believe the most wonderful family of which there is a record. They are the Doles of Honolulu, of which ex-Gov. Dole of the Sandwich Islands is the father. During the 12 years since Stanford university threw open its doors to freshmen, there has never been a time when one of these Dole boys and girls were not winning laurels on the track and football field. The first of them, "Charley" Dole was the first man to be sent from the west to represent the new universities in an eastern field meet. He surprised everybody by bringing home a dozen points, and winning recognition for the west in athletics. He was followed by other and younger members of the family, upon whom such picturesque names as "Savage," "Cannibal," and "Guilty" Dole were bestowed by their classmates. It has now come to be a tradition that a Dole must bear a name in college suggestive of the Pacific Islanders.

Two years ago the bitterest athletic contest that ever took place on the Pacific coast occurred, and it discovered Norman Dole as a pole vaulter. It was a track meet, and in track events Stanford had never won from Berkeley in all the six years they had held annual meetings. On the other hand Berkeley had seldom won at football. However, this year Stanford had received a scorching defeat that left her humiliated and on her mettle. As spring drew near she marshalled her athletes and pressed them forward into the hardest of training. She simply went in to win at all costs, if there was any way in her student body to do it. On the eventful day with a field team much increased by raw recruits, she went to her old rival's grounds, full of the spirit of fight.

Event after event was run off, each developing some new surprise. Unknown runners from Stanford developed winning bursts of speed against Berkeley veterans, and through the whole afternoon the score climbed up, with Stanford farther ahead than she had ever been, but still behind Berkeley a few points. At the end two events were left, the relay race and the pole vault. Either one of them could turn victory to Berkeley if she won it, and Stanford needed them both. In the relay Stanford accumulated a good lead until the last lap, when her man, "Pie" Smith of Denver, running like a deer, stumbled and fell, while the thousands of partisan spectators loosened a cry of triumph and despair according to the colors they wore, as the Blue and Gold runner passed his fallen antagonist. But too much depended on the event to stop and Smith picked himself up, and with a burst of speed that he has never since approached sped on till he crossed the tape with just enough of a lead to win. This brought hope to Stanford, and a tense interest in the final event—the pole vault. If Stanford should win first place she could tie the meet, or if she won second and third place she could tie it, and if first and second she could win the day.

For a whole hour people watched as the sun disappeared through the golden gate, and the darkness found five men, three from Stanford and two from Berkeley still going up into the air, although the coast intercollegiate record had been passed several inches by all five of them in the stress of winning which was forcing them on. Finally Beach of Stanford distanced the best Berkeley man, and Dole of Stanford shot up for a record of 11 feet 7 3/4 inches, within a quarter of an inch of the world's record.

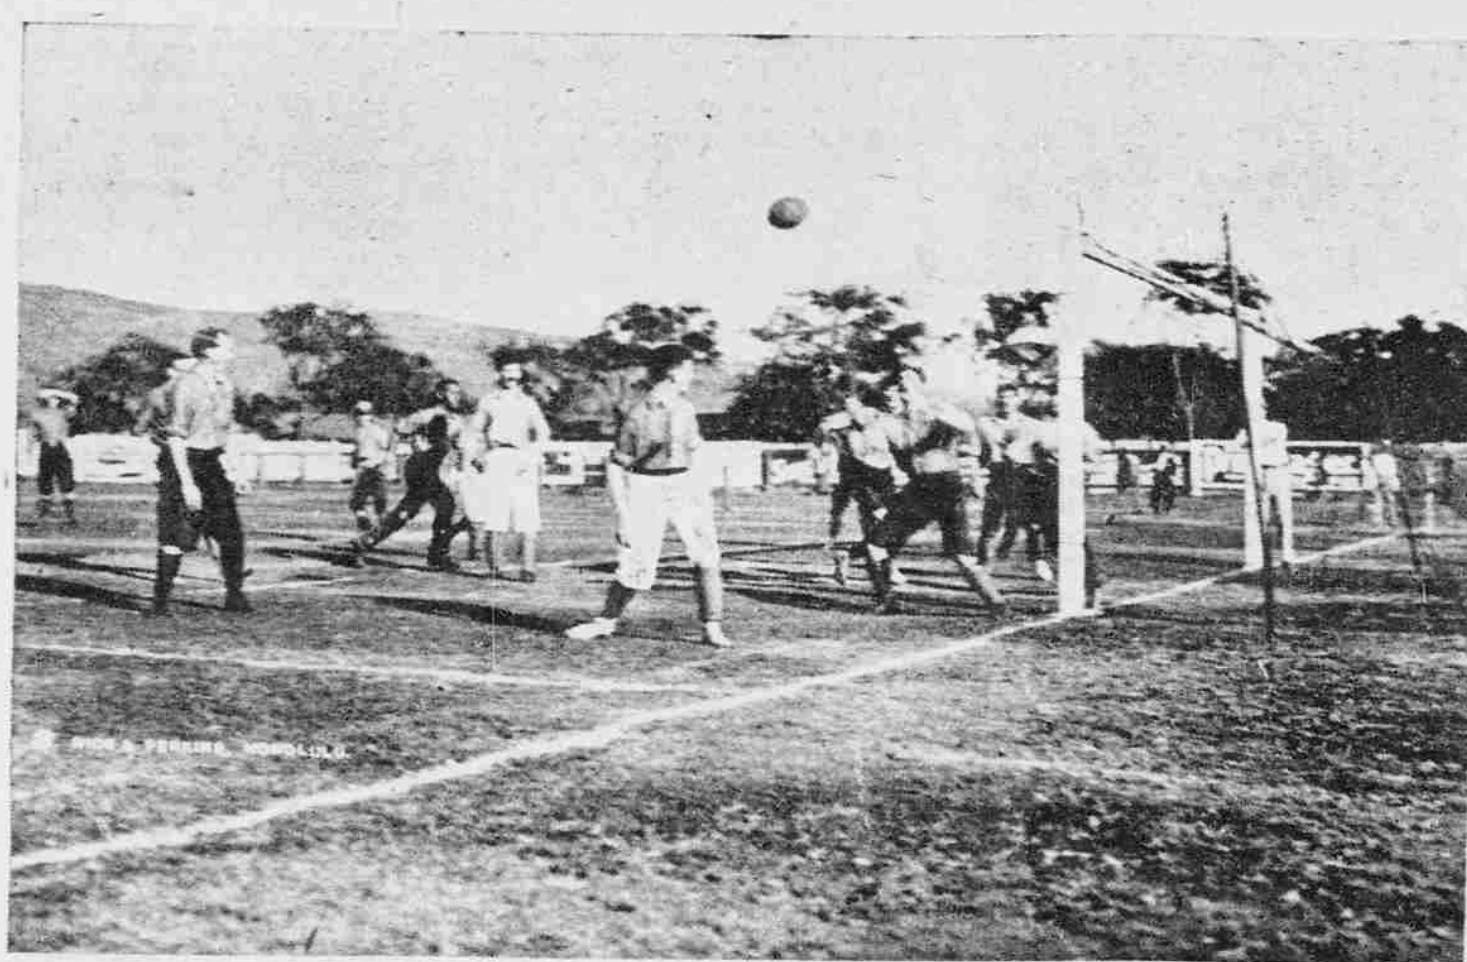

The crowd went wild, while Stanford, intoxicated with the glory of her first field victory, placed Norman Dole as first among the members of the family who had done so much for western athletics.

From that day the boy started to practise to pass the world's record. Last spring he trained steadily for it, and in the field events broke his pole just as he was warming up to record distance. A week later a try-out was held to choose a team for the world's fair meet, and at this try-out he gradually worked distance till he crossed the bar at 12 feet 1.32 inches. Much to the surprise of all coast authorities the record was withheld from press reports. The San Francisco Chronicle noted that the Associated Press ignored it, while the wonderful 12 foot vault of a Yale man was flashed over the country as a new world's mark. Then began the long contest for recognition with the Amateur Athletic union, which has just ended in the giving to Dole of his place as foremost of the world's pole vaulters.

ADVICE TO CADDIES.

You will save time by keeping your eye on the ball, not on the player.

SOCKER FOOTBALL—AN EXCITING MOMENT.

THE GOSSIP OF THE DIAMOND

Baseball talk is in the air and all the fans are sharpening their appetites for the national game. Small bunches of sports are gathering here and there talking over the prospects of the different teams. The principal topic is about the individual players and as to what teams they will hook up with this season.

There is the usual talk that one team is out for all the good men. From what can be heard among the fans, Hampton, Cogswell and Grady of last year's Maile team may be seen in Elk uniforms this season. It is rumored that the Elks are also after Jimmy Williams of the H. A. Cs, but it is very unlikely that Jim will desert his old team. He is a valuable man and will be a help to any team that he might play with. Barney Joy, the "south paw" star artist of the H. A. C., will again be seen in the same harness. Bushnell, the clever little fielder of the Elks, has gone over to the Punahous. The Kama have almost the same team as of last year but are suffering for a catcher. Joe Cohen of the Mailes says that as yet he has signed no men, but will deliver the goods when the proper time comes.

The Punahous are already well organized and practising for their game with the H. A. Cs. on Washington's birthday. They will present quite a strong front in this game and the hard hitting Reds will have to play to defeat them. The Reds have been working at Aala park, where they have been trying out some new men.

There will no doubt be a record breaking crowd out to see these two teams play the first game of ball in 1905. A line can be had on the two teams in this game and they will also show the men they will be most likely to play in the league.

On the same day two of the very best soccer football teams will play an exhibition game of ball. This will give every one a good chance to see just what this game is. An admission of 25 cents for the two games will be charged.

GANZEL WON'T GET HIS RELEASE.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 3.—John Ganzel, first baseman for the New York Americans, has been notified by Manager Griffith that his request for a release in case he secures the Grand Rapids franchise in the Central League will be denied. Griffith asserts that, while he cannot prevent him from managing from the bench, he will prevent his playing on the Grand Rapids team.

Ganzel is still persistent in his determination to buy the local franchise, and will conclude the negotiations with Mautner and Heenan as soon as the street railway company, which is insisting on an exorbitant rental for the Sunday park, comes to his terms.

Ganzel at one time played with the old Stars in Honolulu.

LAJOIE MADE GOOD.

Down in St. Louis one day, just as Lajoie came to bat for Cleveland, a camera man ran out and set his machine for a snapshot of the big fellow's swing.

"That fellow work for you?" a noisy partisan in the grand stand shouted. "Sure," said Larry. "He always takes my picture when I make a home run."

Saying which, he walloped the ball into the center field bleachers and went all the way around unmolested.

MAILE TEAM WINS AGAIN

Wrests "Socker" Game From Iolani 4 to 1.

Score 4 to 1.

At the baseball park yesterday, before one of the largest crowds of the season, the green and yellow played the Iolani off their feet and won a somewhat one-sided game of association football by 4 goals to 1.

The game was very evenly contested for some time, but it soon showed that superior team work and knowledge of the game would tell and when Eardmore by some clever maneuvering shot the first goal the Iolani chances looked slim.

The Iolani, however, fought for every inch of ground and gained the sympathy of the crowd by their hard uphill fight. Beardmore soon shot another goal after a display of some clever team work on the part of his fellow players. In the second half the game was all Maile, with the Iolani playing a hard uphill game.

Fernandez and Gleason of the Iolani played a clever game, but were not strong enough to overcome the steady work of the older players. The Mailes scored their last point by a corner kick.

The line-up was as follows:
Iolani—E. Kellett, J. Kellett, E. Desha, P. Gleason, J. Anderson, M. Anderson, E. Fernandez, J. Woo, C. Campbell, G. Desha, E. Kea.

Mailes—E. Munro, E. McRitchie, R. Anderson, W. Greig, S. Beardmore, J. McGill, A. Guild, J. C. Catterall, J. Harwood, R. Churton, J. Fiddis, J. Davis, I. Spalding and D. Center.

The Ring.

Abe Attell and Eddie Hanlon will be the chief attraction of a show which the Industrial Club of Philadelphia will pull off the latter part of this month. As it will only be a six-round bout, the mighty clever Attell has more than a shade the better of it, even though he is giving Cate several pounds weight.

In point of science Attell is in a class by himself among the little fellows. Jack O'Brien and Jack Willie boxed six tame rounds at Philadelphia. For a time it looked as though the fight would end after the fourth round, when O'Brien refused to continue, claiming that he had been fouled by Willie.

Toby Irwin has left Philadelphia for home. The game at the Quaker City is dull at this time of the year, and there not being much money in sight, Toby thought it best to take a chance at the game on the coast.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4.—Abe Attell of St. Louis got the decision over Tommy Feltz at the expiration of a 15-round bout last night. Feltz resorted to slugging tactics, which he is famous for, and tried hard to put the clever Californian to the floor, but Abe was too shifty for him. Attell safely avoided his rushes and punched Feltz about as often as he liked. Attell had clearly the best of it on points, though Feltz was far from being distressed at the end. The crowd marveled at Attell's wonderful boxing ability. Feltz wants another chance at Attell, and they may be matched again.

Al Neill writes to Jim Griffin from Sydney that he is in great fettle and regaining his old-time form. He writes that he has signed to meet "Soldier" Thompson, the best fighter in the Antipodes and the only boxer to beat him in that country. Al says that if he is successful in this contest that he will have enough engagements to keep him busy for another year.

"I will be ready to resume operations in the ring next month, and expect to, but not this month," said Jimmy Britt yesterday. "In fact, I want to fight in March, for I will have two months' rest, and that is sufficient. It is barely possible that I will box a couple of six-round bouts at Philadelphia before I fight here. I just feel like going East again. You know the poet says that traveling is a great educator. I am strong on the travel."

Basketball.

The men will now have their inning at basketball. A league composed of five teams will enter. All games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. gym. The teams that have entered are as follows: High Schools, Koko Heads, Diamond Heads, Punahou and Kinaus.

The following schedule will be played:
H. S. vs. Koko Heads—February 25.
Diamond Heads vs. Punahou; H. S. vs. Kinaus—March 4.
Koko Heads vs. Diamond Heads; Kinaus vs. Punahou—March 11.
H. S. vs. Diamond Heads; Punahou vs. Koko Heads—March 18.
High Schools vs. Punahou; Koko Heads vs. Kinaus—March 25.

SWEET SLANG.

By far too many of our daughters have a vocabulary so up-to-date as to be ahead of the dictionary. One of the season's buds was asked if she didn't think Miss Elizabeth Glover and the Netherlands Minister made a fine couple. She responded with enthusiasm: "You, bet, they're the sweetest couple that ever breathed. The Jonkheer's a perfect lamb, and Beesie Glover's a bully girl."
